SOPHIA so good. A massive boring machine the length of 11 London buses has just started work on a Crossrail tunnel that will link Plumstead to Woolwich Arsenal.

The 11,000-tonne machine - named after the wife of Marc Isambard Brunel, who built the first tunnel under the Thames - set to work as part of the ground-breaking Crossrail project.

Crossrail will run 12 trains an hour from south-east London to central London, Heathrow and on to Maidenhead.

It's the next major milestone in the royal borough's

Graves sadden me too

I READ with interest D. Hart's letter in the December 18 issue regarding the state of the gravestones in East Greenwich Pleasaunce. I couldn't agree more and it saddens me to see children using them as a playground.

C. R. Medhurst,
Greenwich

Post haste

THANKS to the council who put the posts with disabled parking only signs up in the parking bays at Eynsham Drive, Abbey Wood. Now how about them policing them? They are still getting illegal parking in them and I bet the fruit and veg van will be taking up the bay on Thursday mornings.

Mr B. Hill, Plumstead

● WE have responded to a number of complaints about these bays and issued PCNs to cars found illegally parked. Anyone wishing to raise an enforcement request can contact the council's call centre on 020 8921 4661 where details will be taken and passed to parking enforcement.

Star Letter

I AM writing in regards to the campaign for new river crossings, highlighted in your newspaper.

There was a recent letter from someone who was concerned about the extra traffic and pollution that would result from another tunnel on the Greenwich Peninsula. The reply from yourselves was that this would be looked into once the new tunnel had opened. I find your response completely unacceptable, this matter should be addressed now, as it will affect the quality of life for a large number of Greenwich residents. Already during the afternoon rush hour the existing road network cannot cope with the volume of traffic. During this period the traffic on the A202 southbound is at a crawl. An extra tunnel in this area would lead to greater traffic congestion and pollution. If Greenwich Council is planning to widen the A202 then residents should be told now, not when the tunnel has been built. Paul Whittaker, Charlton

● WE share your concerns about congestion and pollution, and a primary reason for our Bridge the Gap campaign is to ensure there is sufficient road capacity to cross the Thames in east and south east London, and not just at Greenwich Peninsula. Apologies if our previous reply was unclear. Under TfL's application for any of the crossings, details of the environmental impact and traffic management must be available giving not just the council, but all stakeholders, the chance to examine the proposals in detail and comment on them to the inspector before a decision is made.

...and what about bringing back three-lane tunnels

I READ your December 4 lead article 'Bridge the gap' which outlines plans to drive a new tunnel from Greenwich Peninsula and the building of a bridge from Gallions Reach. While I agree with these plans I realise that if approved, it will be many years to come to fruition. This means we will have to suffer many more years of pollution from traffic using the Blackwall Tunnel. This pollution was much reduced when northbound traffic used three lanes in the morning and southbound traffic used three lanes in the evening. Can't this system be reinstated?

Alan Partridge, Eltham

● THE former contraflow system cannot now legally be reinstated by TfL on safety grounds so the only answer is to look at new options. This is one reason the council is campaigning for a local bridge at Thamesmead.

Many thanks...

contribution to Crossrail's south-eastern branch, following the completion of the station box close to Woolwich Arsenal.

The start of work on the tunnel is the next important piece in the jigsaw which is all set to give Greenwich modern and efficient transport links.

And last Friday civic leaders paid a fact-finding visit to Plumstead to see the tunnelling work taking place.

Cllr Chris Roberts, leader of the royal borough, said: "This is an important landmark in our plans to provide Royal Greenwich with an integrated transport system that will open up south-east London and maximise our potential. The UK economy as a whole will benefit as well, as at long last we will have better connections and faster links between west and east London."

Andrew Wolstenholme, Crossrail's chief executive, said: "The start of tunnelling in south-east London marks another milestone for Crossrail, a project that will transform public transport in and around the capital. For the first time people living between Abbey Wood and the Royal Docks will be able to travel right through the centre of the capital without having to change trains, bringing Canary Wharf, the West End and Heathrow closer than ever before."

The train tunnel will run alongside the north Kent railway line under Pettman Crescent. It will then run to north Woolwich, with a new tunnel constructed under the Thames.

The section to Woolwich should be finished by the summer. Once the first section of tunnelling to Woolwich is complete, a second boring machine, called 'Mary', will construct a second tunnel alongside the first. Between them, Sophia and Mary will excavate over half a million tonnes of material.

● For further information and to track the progress of the machines go to the website at www.crossrail.co.uk/near-you

● THE tunnel borer at Plumstead will move forward at an average 100 metres a week, operated by 20-strong tunnel gangs working in shifts - 12 on the boring machine itself and eight working between the rear of the machine to the tunnel entrance. 'Sophia' has a rotating cutter head at the front, and as the machine advances forwards pre-cast concrete segments are put in place to form concrete rings to line the tunnel. The segments are positioned with millimetre precision and held in place by hydraulic rams.

AS the Crossrail project gathers steam, the Bridge the Gap campaign for two new crossings over the Thames is gaining momentum.

The royal borough, working with Newham Council north of the river, is convinced it is the only solution to ease the severe daily traffic congestion, cut pollution and open up east London to more business and prosperity.

Supporters say a new tunnel between Greenwich Peninsula and Silvertown, and a new bridge at Gallions Reach between Beckton and Thamesmead, will boost this part of London's prospects to grow and prosper. They say a bridge at Gallions Reach would make it easier to get to 40 sites either side of the river, boosting development prospects,

Crossroads for bridge campaign and creating around 20,000 jobs. A Silvertown Tunnel would provide much needed relief to traffic congestion at the Blackwall Tunnel and support the development of Greenwich Peninsula and Royal Docks. Between central London and the M25 heading west, there are 25 bridge crossings over the Thames. But from Tower Bridge to Dartford, there are just two. Transport for London is consulting on the river crossings package until February 1. Its proposals include a ferry at Gallions Reach and tunnel at Silvertown. Both councils believe these proposals do not go far enough. They want residents and businesses to give strong support to the fixed link crossings between Beckton and Thamesmead and the Silvertown Tunnel. These are also being backed by business leaders, who say they would transform the economic potential of the old industrial sites on both sides of the Thames.

Royal Borough of Greenwich
London Local Authorities Act
1990 as amended Prohibition of Itinerant Ice Cream Trading in Designated Streets in Woolwich SE18.

A decision signed by the delegated officer on behalf of the Council on 28/12/2012 designates the following streets in Woolwich SE18 in the Royal Borough of Greenwich as "prohibited streets" under the provisions of section 37 of the above legislation.

The streets are: Anglesea Road (from Woolwich New Road to Anglesea Avenue, Barnard Close, Beresford Square, Bunton Street, Calderwood Street from Thomas Street to Powis Street, Clara Place, Creton Street, General Gordon Square, Greens End, Hare Street, McBean Street, Monk Street, Murrays Yard, Parry Place, Powis Street, Spray Street (from Woolwich New Road to Taylor Buildings), Thomas Street, Vincent Road (from Woolwich New Road to Helen Street, Wilmount Street (from Woolwich New Road to Anglesea Avenue), and Woolwich New Road from Beresford Street to Anglesea Road (which includes General Gordon Place).

Itinerant ice cream traders operating in streets that are not designated as either "licensed streets" or "prohibited streets" are exempt from street trading legislation.

The effect of the decision will be to remove this exemption from street trading legislation that applies to itinerant ice cream traders operating in the streets specified above. Unless specifically licensed by the Council all ice cream trading by street traders in these streets will be unlawful.

Itinerant ice cream traders will continue to be able to trade in other streets throughout the Borough which have not been designated as either "licensed" or "prohibited" streets.

The Council considers it necessary to prohibit these streets in the interests of preventing obstruction to traffic or undue interference or inconvenience to persons using the street.

These prohibitions will come into effect from February 13th 2013.

Green light for new stores in Charlton

by Dick Townsend-Smith

A NEW retail park at the riverside in Charlton has been given the go ahead, which will see Sainsbury's and Marks and Spencer open new stores.

Both schemes were given the green light by the royal borough's planning board last Wednesday (January 9).

The retail centre, to be built by developers LXB, is all part of the Charlton riverside masterplan, and is expected to create hundreds of new jobs. The old buildings on the site will be bulldozed.

Sainsbury's will relocate from its Bugsby's Way site, which they are unable to extend due to the design of the store. The new store will have a wider range of goods, including the popular TU clothing range. The store will also operate a goods online service, with around 42 vans delivering groceries locally.

"We are very pleased that planning has been granted by the council," said Lisa Poyser, Sainsbury's

Development Surveyor. "Colleagues working at the Bugsby's Way store will be invited to relocate to the new one in Charlton and the current store will remain open until the day the new store opens."

The new Marks and Spencer is to be split over two floors and have a food hall, a clothing department, homewares and furniture. The development site, north of Woolwich Road and west of Gallions Road, Charlton, is set to have space for a mix of smaller retail units.

Planners say that replacing the current poor-quality retail, warehouse and industrial buildings with modern retail units would help make full use of the under-used site and provide much-needed jobs for local people.

A decision on the scheme was due to have been taken on November 29, but it was deferred so that councillors could visit the site and get reassurance that the development would not damage shops in Woolwich and other local town centres.

Greenwich Park closed to traffic

THE Royal Parks have announced that Greenwich Park will be closed to through traffic for 11 weeks for improvement works to roads and footpaths.

Work was due to start on January 14 and continue until March 28. Although the car park remains open, The Avenue through route will be closed to all vehicles, motorists and cyclists.

The upgrade includes:

- Resurfacing of the park's road network from Blackheath Gate to St Mary's Gate

- Removing and relaying 500m of granite gully along both sides of The Avenue

- Resurfacing all parking bays on Blackheath Avenue.

The road works run alongside the final phase of works at Blackheath Gate, including traffic calming measures on Charlton Way, a serious accident black-spot for cyclists.

Park manager Graham Dear told GT: "This programme of works, including the footpath improvements, is part of a major improvement programme for Greenwich Park and the southern approach to the World Heritage Site. Unfortunately, it does mean disruption to the use of park roads and will impact outside the park, but the scale of work means the only safe option is to close the park to through traffic."

Signs informing locals of the road closures were erected in the park last Wednesday.

Greenwich Council was disappointed that no prior warning or information had been available so that motorists and cyclists could be advised to find alternative routes. It has sought an urgent meeting to discuss appropriate measures to reduce the impact on local residents.

Health report proposes closure of hospital trust

THE administrator's report on the future of the NHS in south-east London was handed to the Secretary of State for Health last week (January 7).

The submission recommends that the South London Healthcare Trust is broken up, and that the Lewisham Hospital's A&E department is closed.

Under the new plans, the Queen Elizabeth Hospital Woolwich and Lewisham Healthcare Trust would join together to serve the residents of Greenwich and Lewisham. The South London Healthcare Trust was losing a reported £1.3million a week before it went into administration in July 2012. The paper also recommends that any debts are written off by the Department of Health so new organisations are not 'saddled with the issues of the past'. Consultations attended by the special administrator, Matthew Kershaw, were held in the local community before the report was finalised at the turn of the year.

Health secretary Jeremy Hunt has until February 1 to review the recommendations and make a decision on the future of the trust.

In Charlton we TRUST!

It's a big anniversary this year for the Charlton Athletic Community Trust. Ambassador and DJ Dave Berry tells ROD KITSON all about it...

CHARLTON Athletic Community Trust celebrates its 20th birthday next month, and its newest ambassador, Capital Radio DJ Dave Berry, is organising the birthday bash.

"We've managed to get the Indigo2 for the gig," he told GT. "We've got Sky coming down for the event, as Dickie Davies is a big supporter of the trust. It's a chance for all those people who've worked for the trust for 20 years to get together and have a well-earned glass of champagne."

Olly Murs is headlining the show on February 11, and the trust has organised its very own talent competition, the winner of which will be playing on the same stage on the night.

"What I'm working on is an X Factor-style competition and I want us to make a band or an artist that will be supported by the work of other young people," the Capital Radio DJ said. "People who are interested in fashion or clothes will get to create a look for the winner, people who are into the media will find interviews with local press and radio. The people that are interested in film, we'll get them involved in making the video. It's basically like School of Rock...but in south-east London...and I'm the Jack Black character."

Dave was made youth ambassador for the community charity in April 2012, when the trust took over the running of local youth services on behalf of the royal borough.

It now runs services in term time and during the school holidays at local youth hubs and venues around the borough.

"When they asked me to be an ambassador it was a real honour," he said. "One of the first things I got to do was host proceedings on the pitch when we got promoted from League One."

"There was not only Richard Rufus back for the day, but there was Alan Curbishley. I introduced him to rapturous applause from 25,000 fans, he then came out and I extended my hand for him to shake, but he completely ignored me!" Dave got to cut the ribbon at the trust's new centre, Valley Central, but his main role at CACT is helping young people in the community.

"Getting involved in youth services" side of the trust is about giving young people opportunities to realise that there are things to do," he said. "In such tough times if you are a young person looking beyond education, we're trying to give young people as many opportunities as we can. And because it's Charlton, it's great at supporting the disabled children as well – we've got football coaches and facilities and training grounds."

Dave's hoping there will be more big-name acts added to the gig. "I'm currently working on a couple of other bands and I might stick some stand-up comedy in there as well."

"I'm looking at calling in a few friends, and the angle I'm going with is: 'If you don't agree to do this for me I won't be playing your new single on the Capital breakfast show!' So I'm going for the hard, aggressive tactic on this one."

"I'm very lucky where I work and I've got a lot of contacts which can hopefully get the young people a bit further down the line. Above all hopefully they'll learn something from it and it will be fun."

Dave was born and bred in SE7, but he's got a chilling confession. "I'm not quite a lifelong fan if I'm totally honest," he admitted. "I've never told anyone this, but as a boy I was a Gooner. I became a Charlton fan was when they returned to the Valley when I was 13, and I've loved them ever since."

THIS rare blue-eared pheasant was found and captured in Charlton on December 28. Park-keepers are keen to find out who the bird belongs to and return it to its rightful owner.

The bird can fly, so it could have come from afar but it is more likely from a local aviary as it is reluctant to take to the air. It has a leg tag with an identification number. If you know who the bird belongs to, or if it is yours, contact

Computer exchange to borough's African twin

ONE hundred computers provided by accountants KPMG – plus educational books from Greenwich Community College – are being transported to Tema, Greenwich's twin town on the meridian line in Ghana, next month.

Any residents who would like to donate good quality educational books can take them to borough libraries during January. Greenwich twinned with Tema, the port town five miles from the capital, Accra, to mark the new millennium in 2000. Since then Greenwich and Tema have enjoyed mutual benefits, including youth exchanges. Greenwich has sent a mobile ICT learning centre to Tema, equipped with nine personal computers and books for school libraries, and a former council passenger bus to support education development in the town.

Bloom time in West Greenwich as the Orchard Estate gets a mega makeover

by Dick Townsend-Smith

RESIDENTS on the Orchard Estate in West Greenwich have helped transform unused outdoor space around their blocks of flats into attractive features that can be used by the whole 800-strong community.

They now have an outdoor gym, a seating area where they can meet up, and new walkways. There is also a new orchard where different types of fruit can be grown, and a community food garden.

The new features were opened by the Mayor, Cllr David Grant, along with Cllr Steve Offord, the council's cabinet member for housing. Fitness coaches were also on hand to guide residents on how to use and benefit from the gym equipment.

The project was kicked off by the Orchard Tenants' and Residents' Association with support from the royal borough, winners of a £50,000 grant from Transform, which provides grants to community groups in Olympic host boroughs to turn green and open spaces into community use.

Volunteers helped lay out the seating area, using old paving slabs from the site. The orchard was planted by the residents, with many adopting a tree.

Cllr Harry Singh, cabinet member for Greener Greenwich, said: "It is great to see how residents of all ages have become so actively involved in this project from the outset, and it's this sense of community involvement which has made it such a great success."

"They now have excellent new outdoor facilities including a brilliant new community garden and orchard that will develop further and be enjoyed for many years to come."

Other community groups that want to transform derelict land into a green space or community garden for food growing can apply

Growing Greenwich not just food for thought

GREEN-fingered residents have exceeded their target of creating new food growing spaces in the borough as part of the London-wide Capital Growth scheme.

Some 143 new spaces are part of the estimated 124 acres of previously disused across London that are now abundant with fruit and veg.

The four-year partnership initiative between London Food Link, the Mayor of London and the Big Lottery's Local Food Fund – involving 100,000 volunteers – reached its target of creating 2,012 new community food-growing spaces by the end of last year.

Growing Greenwich has established 14 new community gardens, nine on estates, eight at sheltered accommodation, two allotments and 33 food-growing spaces at primary and secondary schools, nurseries and children's centres.

Cllr Harry Singh, cabinet member for Greener Greenwich, told GT: "The Capital Growth scheme has been a great success, bringing no fewer than 77 new food-growing spaces to the borough.

"It gives people the skills and knowledge to grow their own food and has attracted 1,500 volunteers to get involved. All food is grown using organic principles and recycling as much as possible, with rainwater collection and composting where possible."

Don't take the risk: get flu jab for free

...and spread the word to the vulnerable

by Dick Townsend-Smith

GET flu safe with a flu jab.

That's the message from health experts as winter tightens its grip.

The jab is free for people over 65 and over six months with weak immune systems or a long term health condition.

NHS Greenwich is encouraging people to make an appointment with their GP or visit one of the participating pharmacies to get one.

Flu is a highly contagious infection that anyone can catch, and it can be a very serious illness for some.

Those at greater risk include people aged 65 or over, pregnant women and those with health conditions such as severe asthma, chest or heart complaints and diabetes.

Retired refuse worker Peter Addley and his wife Jennifer, from Plumstead, have had their flu jab at their GP and feel protected as a result.

Peter said: "With the cold climate you never know what you are going to get. You have to be on guard against the flu bugs. People need to have it as flu is a killer. Just a little jab and it can save your life basically."

JUST THE JAB: Plumstead couple Peter and Jennifer Addley have had the flu jab

Jennifer, at risk due to a long-term health condition, said: "The flu jab protects. I have not had flu for 10 years since I started getting the jab. Before that I had the flu and it was quite bad."

Only two thirds of people most at risk from flu in Greenwich have had their jab. NHS Greenwich is encouraging everyone who knows anyone who may be at risk to tell them how important it is that they get protected.

Steve Whiteman, acting director of public health, said: "Flu can increase the risk of developing more serious illnesses such as bronchitis and pneumonia, and can make existing conditions much worse."

"In most years most people become unwell with flu during January and February. If you're in any of the 'at risk' groups, the jab is free and is a safe way of protecting you and your family in a matter of minutes."

"Simply contact your GP to arrange a convenient appointment and get your jab."

"It's quick, safe and free for those most at risk from the virus."

There are also a number of NHS pharmacies and walk-in centres across Greenwich offering the free vaccination. You don't need to make an appointment.

● A FULL list of the pharmacies and walk-in centres can be found at www.selondon.nhs.uk

Road gritters on standby for cold snap

MAIN roads and public transport routes will be among the first to be gritted by the royal borough in the event of snow. Hospital access routes and busy hills will also be prioritised ahead of reports of bad weather.

The council will also try to grit or clear slopes and stairways in communal areas on council estates where possible. And it will aim to respond to requests for road gritting as quickly as possible.

Treatments that can be provided include:

- pre-salting - where rock salt is used on the roads to prevent ice from forming during frosty conditions

- post-salting - where rock salt is used to melt ice and snow that has already formed and snow removal. Road gritting requests can be made on 020 8921 5419 or email contact-centre@greenwich.gov.uk And there are 147 self-help salt bins around the borough. Get details of their locations at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

It's a blanket cover plan

EXTRA support for residents who may be at risk during cold weather is being provided by the council.

Its Stay Warm Stay Safe scheme includes: help to manage in extreme winter weather advice and help on fuel bills; home visits to make sure you are warm and safe; a benefit check by the royal borough's welfare rights service; checking and setting central heating programmers installing draught proofing; checking the level of insulation in the loft, and a free room thermometer and blanket.

Residents who are worried about keeping warm or having problems paying winter fuel bills are welcome to contact the service along with anyone who knows someone who may be at risk during cold weather.

● Call the Stay Warm Stay Safe scheme on 0800 779 7033.

A warm front

RESIDENTS have just a few days left to apply for grants to help them make their homes warmer and more energy efficient. Grants of up to £3,500 are being offered through the government's Warm Front scheme which provides tailored advice and a package of tailor-made heating and insulation improvements.

It is available to people who own their own home or rent it from a private landlord and are on certain benefits. But the deadline for the next round of applications ends this weekend on Saturday, January 19.

Properties that have received a grant before may still qualify for extra measures depending on the improvement they originally received.

● To find out if you are eligible fill in a paper application form (can be obtained by emailing energy-efficiency@royalgreenwich.gov.uk); call free on 0800 316 6011 or apply online at www.warmfront.co.uk

Phones for you: donate mobiles for CJ

A LOVING brother is urging the local community to answer his call for old mobile phones as part of a fundraising scheme aimed at equipping autistic children with iPads.

Alan Walsh, aged 20, is calling on people to donate their unwanted handsets, so that he can get an iPad for his autistic brother, CJ.

CJ, aged five, was born with a hole in his heart, and during one of his many hospital appointments as a baby, doctors diagnosed him as autistic. He is unable to speak, and has to bring objects to his family members to ask for anything he wants.

CJ lives with his parents Sharon and Paul in Greenwich.

The scheme, run by autism charity Hearts and Minds Challenge, enables families to exchange old mobiles for iPads.

Alan, one of five children, said: "CJ enjoys watching films on his dad's phone, and using the computer at school. I've heard wonderful things about autistic children progressing incredibly well thanks to iPads, and I'd love for CJ to be given that opportunity."

"I'd like to encourage anyone who may have old or unwanted mobiles lying around at home to get in contact and help transform someone's life."

If you have any unwanted mobile phones, you can email Alan at walshy2468@gmail.com

NHS Greenwich has produced a series of free route maps for people who want to walk or cycle to keep active and fit.

Ten different maps are available for both walkers and cyclists, covering different parts of the borough with both short and longer routes. Each walking map covers routes taking 40 or 70 minutes; each cycling route is designed to take 20 or 40 minutes. All the routes are off main roads, and the maps point out interesting buildings and scenic views along the route. Areas featured include Abbey Wood, Charlton, New Charlton, Eltham, New Eltham, Greenwich, Plumstead, East Thamesmead, West Thamesmead and Woolwich. People can also use the maps to plan their own routes. It's all part of the Greenwich Get Active scheme, run by NHS Greenwich, which encourages cycling and walking among a range of free and affordable physical activities from swimming to salsa classes.

The maps are aimed at both people who want to walk independently or in groups. Over the summer NHS Greenwich health advisors went out talking to people about becoming more physically active. Most people were interested in walking and cycling, so organisers decided it would be better to focus on these rather than activities at gyms and sports clubs. ● The maps are available from libraries and community centres, or you can request one by e-mailing info@greenwichgetactive.com or by downloading one from www.greenwichgetactive.com ● More maps will be available shortly for people who have been advised to take more exercise by their doctors. They will be launched at GPs' surgeries and children's centres, and will feature routes nearby that will take 15 minutes for children, and 15 or 30 minutes for adults. People can walk either in groups or on their own.

Green with energy!

SPORT is at hand to help residents get fitter and enjoy the great outdoors on their steps. They're being encouraged to get out and explore Royal Greenwich's glorious spaces by foot or by bike. And using their own kind of green energy means little cost to the local environment. GT finds out what's available...

Buddy up with fellow riders on cycle network

NETWORKING groups for cyclists are encouraging people to saddle up and make friends on two wheels. Riders of all abilities are joining the Social Cycling Groups – a network for cyclists set up by British Cycling. The network means people can find other individuals to ride with, groups to join and rides to take part in. People can also start their own cycling groups and organise their own rides at a level and time to suit them. Cyclists can link up online and create their own rides and groups which can be open to the public or invitation only. More than 10,000 people have joined Social Cycling Groups and the royal borough is encouraging local people to find others to ride with and make some friends along the way. The network is open to individuals or groups to join or organise rides. Anyone over 16 can create a free profile, search for and buddy up with riders in their area, or create rides for friends, colleagues and local cyclists to join. Companies, cycling campaigners, bike retailers and leisure centres are also using Social Cycling Groups to create social, commuter and fundraising rides for their employees, customers and supporters. Cllr John Fahy, the royal borough's cabinet member for health and older people, said: "This growing network attracts hundreds of new users each week and is an ideal way for cyclists to arrange bike rides for their own purposes, whether that is to get others involved in cycling, promote regular exercise, or organise social activities. "The social nature of the rides means people are more likely to take part in cycling activities and ride more regularly." ● To join Social Cycling Groups and register for a free account visit www.goskyride.com

Keep fit cycle camps

NO Lycra or experience needed! That's the promise from organisers of a cycling 'fit camp' for 2013. Whether you want to lose weight, get fit or just have fun, there'll be a warm welcome into the camp. It's being run by Limited Edition Cyclists, a cycling club which caters for cyclist of all abilities in Greenwich and Bexley. "Fit Camp is aimed at beginner and returning cyclists, it's a chance to try cycling at a low level and in the company of others under the guidance of experienced cyclists," explained leading member Ollie Golding. Fit Camp Basics is a six-week afternoon course for beginner and less confident cyclists, which is starting on Saturday, February 2. It includes a bike check, bike set-up, clothing advice, basic skills sessions off-road and basic on-road riding in the protection of a group. The group is also running a 10-week cycling fit camp, which started on Sunday, (January 12). The course for novice cyclists launches with road skill sessions, progressing to hills and then to intermediate group riding skills. At the end of this course, riders will be able to confidently ride with the usual Sunday groups and can choose to take the 'Fit camp challenge', working towards a 35-mile or 60-mile charity ride at the end of June. Both courses are free and include a six-week free membership to the club. All you need is a road worthy bike and a helmet.

● Kids Club @ LEC started last Saturday and young riders we will be working on using gears in different situations this half term from February 16. As well as the regular coaching sessions, there'll be a mountain bike ride and road style rides, so that young riders can try various forms of cycling. ● Contact Ollie on 07984 200566 or email: olliegolding@tiscali.co.uk

SET yourself a new year's resolution to get cycling in the Royal Borough of Greenwich. Cycling is a fun, environmentally friendly and healthy way to get around, and thanks to the NHS Greenwich cycle loan scheme there's never been a better time to give it a try. Loaning a bike from the scheme costs just £10 for one month. To be eligible for the scheme you must be a resident of the Royal Borough of Greenwich and 18 years old or over. Once you've joined up an advisor will call you to

Lunchtime recitals in the House

IT'S one of London's finest Jacobean mansions, and until the end of March, Charlton House is hosting musical recitals on Friday lunchtimes. Best of all, they are free to attend, and there are special offers in the venue's cafe.

On Friday January 18 at 1pm the Guildhall School of Music and Drama presents the music of Schubert, Debussy and Ravel, in 'Reactions and Reflections'.

Chloë Treharne stars as soprano, Piran Legg takes baritone duties and Vladimir Waltham and Amber Rainey accompany on cello and piano respectively.

In the cafe, special deals are running on concert days - sandwich and drink for £3, soup and a sandwich for £3.50, and tea and cake for £2.50.

On January 25 at 1pm, Guildhall is back with Junior Guildhall String Ensemble.

The conductor on the day is Darragh Morgan. On the menu is the music of Bach, Philip Glass and Holst.

On February 1 at 1pm the Royal College of Music presents Natsumi Ikenaga on piano. The programme includes works by Haydn and Prokofiev.

On February 8 players from the Royal Academy of Music perform. The London Guitar Duo - William Cashel and Ben Bruant play works by Couperin, Rameau, J.S.Bach F.Sor, Falla, Brouwer and Piazzolla.

February 15 sees the Guildhall School of Music and Drama return with the Reactions and Reflections series.

This time it's To Have Loved, To Have Lived. Charlotte King is the mezzo soprano for the performance which starts at 1pm, and Jorge Nabarro Colorado the tenor.

The Royal College of Music is back on February 22 with tenor Michael Butchard accompanied by Emas Au on piano.

On March 1 the Royal Academy of Music presents Chamber Music with Harp, with works by Joseph Ropartz, Claude Debussy and Maurice Ravel.

It's the turn of Guildhall's Reactions and Reflections on March 8, with The Calm Before the Storm. Claire Candy and Natalie Perez are the sopranos, while Ricardo Gosalbo plays piano. Guildhall present Junior Guildhall Chamber Choir on March 15, and return to Reactions and Reflections on March 22.

THE BAFTA and Oscars shortlists last week included nominations for two movies filmed at the Old Royal Naval College in Greenwich.

Musical epic Les Misérables made it into nine categories in the BAFTA shortlist, and was nominated for eight Oscars. The 23rd James Bond film, Skyfall, was nominated for eight BAFTAs and five Oscars.

While Skyfall didn't make it into the best picture category, the snub was offset by the news that it has become the most successful Bond film ever - box office receipts world-wide have reached $1.1 billion (£620 million).

The funeral sequence was shot at the ORNC, and much of the action took place in south-east London.

More extensively filmed on location was the adaptation of the West End's Les Mis, with cast - starring Russell Crowe - and crew spending weeks in SE10.

The classical-inspired buildings are no stranger to the movie business. Every year films, TV dramas and adverts set up at the picturesque location.

And now the site's showpiece, the Painted Hall, has been awarded a lottery grant of nearly £350,000 to allow restoration work on its giant west wall.

"The Bond funeral scene was filmed just below where we are standing," Painted Hall guide Chenoa Bailey tells me as I inadvertently lean on the oak table where Lord Nelson's body was prepared for his open casket. "It is an attractive place for film-makers as there is no traffic here - it's historic, very close to central London and the frontages of the buildings can be easily transformed."

the Restoration!

Movies shot at the Old Royal Naval College are up for Oscars and BAFTAs, and a revamp of Painted Hall is well underway. ROD KITSON reports...

The hall is home to James Thornhill's famous interior, a lavish floor-to-ceiling 18th century masterpiece that took 19 years to complete. But over the years, grime, dirt, dust – and even gravy and tea stains have left the bright colours in need of a lift.

Experts from Italy have been drafted in to undertake the painstaking work – 100-ft up on scaffolding, sometimes cleaning only one square inch of the west wall in a day.

"We think the tea bag stain came at one of the annual Trafalgar Banquets," Chenoa added. "A waitress had been insulted by one of the Master of Ceremonies and threw the tea bag in anger – she managed quite a height. The gravy stain appeared after some hijinks when the Royal Naval officers used to eat in here every day."

The last time the hall was restored was in the 1950s, and Cleona hopes that the current round of work will be good for another sixty years.

The scaffolding that rises out of sight inside the cavernous building has allowed Chenoa and the team to see the brushwork up close for the first time.

"We've noticed many new things," said the guide of 13 years. "There's a piece of coral in a girl's hand we never saw before, and there is a foreshortening technique that Thornhill used to make the dimensions look correct from the ground." In between painting the vast ceiling and the vertiginous west wall, Thornhill laid his brush on the dome at St Paul's Cathedral.

"Thornhill was given the commission as the patrons wanted an English Protestant to paint it, and not a 'foreign Catholic'. It is traditional English Baroque in style."

To get all the dimensions on the ceiling correct, the painter first created a scale picture on a grid, and then scaled it up by using a larger grid on the ceiling, made of string.

MISSED: Andy was passionate about the local music scene

Concert for Andy returns

ANDY Ropek was a well-loved champion of the local music scene, who passed away in December 2011.

A tribute concert was held for him at Blackheath Halls last January with all of his old band-mates and friends coming along to pay their respects.

It was a great success, but his wife Kim had always imagined it would be a one-off. That was until the phone started ringing with well-wishers asking when this year's Concert for Andy would be happening.

"Last year's went really well, but I wasn't sure about doing another one," Kim told Scene. "But then everyone said that they really wanted to do it again. Benny Gallagher, who played last year personally said he would like to do it again."

Benny – who sang on the last Art Garfunkel record, headlines the night on February 2, which is at the Blackheath Halls and is for the charity the Greenwich and Bexley Hospice.

Andy died on December 5, 2011 after a short battle with cancer.

"He would have been blown away by the concert last year, the Intrepid Spaniels – which he was part of, reformed for the gig, and they are playing again this year," Kim said.

Up and coming acoustic talent Luke Jackson is also on the bill, and so is fellow singer-songwriter Jack Harris.

The Mishaped Pearls have found favour with BBC Radio 6's Tom Robinson, and they bring their blend of folk and classical to the concert.

Andy founded the Icarus Club which showcased local musicians, and his partner Phil Dearing continues to promote the night which is on at the Pelton Arms.

"Andy always had time for people," Kim added. "I think that's why so many people loved him. He would never put on cover acts, only original material was allowed at his nights."

"It was a hobby which became an obsession! He was very thorough in promoting – it was his whole life."

"I'm looking forward to seeing all the acts – The Portraits and the Mishaped Pearls should be great. Last year everyone got on stage at the end – it went a bit mad!"

And the goodwill continues this year – Blackheath Halls has donated the venue for the night free of charge. RK Concert for Andy is on at Blackheath Halls, Saturday February 2, 8pm. Tickets £10.

Until Sun May 12

THE Fan Museum gave us all things sporty in the summer with sports and leisure fans. To start the New Year, it's going back in time with a collection of fans depicting the early 19th century in Europe.

The exhibition called 'The Fan in Europe 1800-1850' runs until May and gives visitors an insight of the great shift of political and cultural upheaval that occurred in the West during the 1800s including the Napoleonic war, the Enlightenment period and goods trading.

The fans range from French and Spanish models of the Regency period, to fans illustrating the rise of the opera. The art and craft of fan-making was affected during this period where craftsmen could no longer use the delicate materials of precious gems, ivory and tortoiseshell due to the compromise of trading between countries.

The Fan In Europe 1800-1850 runs at The Fan Museum, Crooms Hill, Greenwich until Sun May 12. Tues-Sat 11am to 5pm, Sundays 12pm to 5pm. £4 entry, £3 concs. 020 8305 1441.

ROYAL BOROUGH OF GREENWICH
ROAD TRAFFIC REGULATION ACT 1984 AND HIGHWAYS ACT 1980
The Greenwich (20 MPH Zone) (No. 4) Traffic Order 2013

The Greenwich (Waiting and Loading Restriction) (Amendment No. 4) Order 2013
The Greenwich (Prohibition of Stopping Outside Schools) (Amendment No. 4) Order 2013

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Royal Borough of Greenwich (hereinafter referred to as "the Council") proposes to make the above-mentioned Orders under sections 8, 84 and 124 of and Part IV of Schedule 9 to the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, as amended.
2. The general effect of the 20mph Order would be to impose a 20 miles per hour speed limit on motor vehicles in Herbert Road, between the north-eastern kerb-line of Eglinton Hill and the southern kerb-line of Plumstead Common Road.
3. The general effect of the Waiting and Loading Order would be to introduce double yellow line "at any time" waiting restrictions in:
  - (a) Eglinton Hill, the west side:
    - (i) from a point 2.2 metres south of the southern kerb-line of Geneva Road to a point 2.2 metres north of a point opposite the common boundary of Nos. 39 and 41 Eglinton Hill; and
    - (ii) from a point 3.4 metres north of a point opposite the common boundary of Nos. 129 and 131 Eglinton Hill to a point 5.4 metres south-east of a point opposite the common boundary of Nos. 135 and 137 Eglinton Hill;
  - (b) Brent Road, both sides, from the western kerb-line of Eglinton Road to a point 57.8 metres south-east of the party wall of Nos. 33 and 35 Brent Road;
  - (c) Conderver Crescent, both sides, from the western kerb-line of Eglinton Road to a point 55.3 metres north-east of the common boundary of Nos. 2 and 4 Conderver Crescent;
  - (d) Carwell Road, both sides, from the western kerb-line of Eglinton Road to a point 13.4 metres north-east of the north-eastern wall of Nos. 1-6 Carwell House, Carwell Road;
  - (e) Ripon Road, both sides, from the western kerb-line of Eglinton Road to a point 11 metres south-east of the common boundary of No. 43 Ripon Road and No. 14 Eglinton Hill; and
  - (f) Red Lion Lane, both sides, from a point 7.2 metres north-west of the common boundary of Nos. 21 and 23 Red Lion Lane to a point 19 metres north-west of that common boundary.
4. The general effect of the School Keep Clear Order would be to relocate the existing 'school keep clear' restrictions in Red Lion Lane on the north-east side, from a point 19 metres north-west of the common boundary of Nos. 21 and 23 Red Lion Lane north-westward for a distance of 25.54 metres.
5. FURTHER NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council proposes, under sections 90A and 90C of the Highways Act 1980, to:
  - (a) construct the type of flat-top road humps known as "speed tables" or "entry treatments" at the locations specified in Schedule 1 to this Notice. Each speed table would be an elevated section of carriageway with a flat top, between 75 and 100 millimetres higher at its highest point than the surrounding carriageway, extending across the full width of the carriageway, and having the dimensions also specified in Schedule 1 to this Notice;
  - (b) construct round-top road humps at the locations specified in Schedule 2 to this Notice. Each round-top road hump would be an elevated section of carriageway, between 75 and 100 millimetres higher at its highest point than the surrounding carriageway, extending across the full width of the carriageway and measuring approximately 3.7 metres in length, including the gradients; and
  - (c) construct the type of road humps known as "speed cushions" in staggered lines of two or three across the width of the carriageway at the locations specified in Schedule 3 to this Notice. Each speed cushion would be an elevated section of carriageway with a flat top, between 75 and 100 millimetres higher at its highest point than the surrounding carriageway and measuring approximately 3 metres in length and 1.5 metres in width, including the gradients.
6. A copy of the proposed Orders and other documents, including a map, giving more detailed particulars of the Orders, speed tables and road humps is available for inspection during normal office hours until the end of six weeks from the date on which the Orders are made or, as the case may be, the Council decides not to make the Orders, at the Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise and Skills, Strategic Transportation, Royal Borough of Greenwich, The Woolwich Centre, 35 Wellington Street, 6HQ.
7. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Strategic Transportation on 020 8921 2284.
8. Any person who wishes to object to or make other representations about the proposed Orders, speed tables or road humps should send a statement in writing, specifying the grounds on which any objection is made, to the Royal Borough of Greenwich, PO Box 485, Kemp House, 152-160 City Road, London, EC1V 2HX (quoting reference PCL/THO/BU/1000000962), by 5th February 2013.
9. Persons objecting to the proposed Orders should be aware that in view of the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985, this Council would be legally obliged to make any comments received in response to this notice, open to public inspection.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 322

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

Ramprakash masterclass

years ago. We didn't have the same support or specialist help, so I had to learn a lot from other players.

"When I first joined Middlesex, Mike Gatting was incredibly helpful."

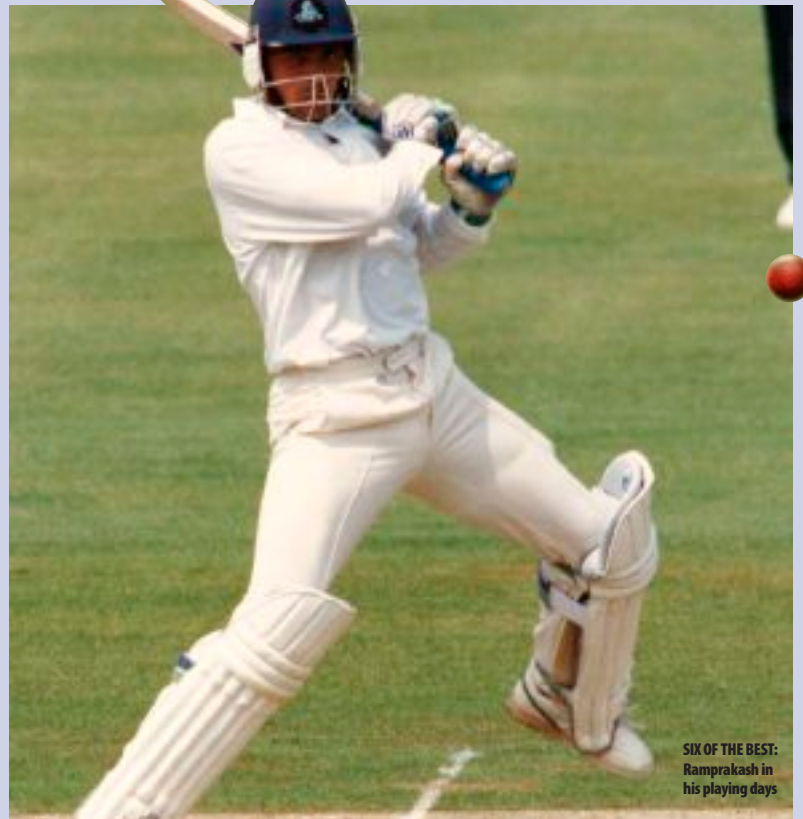

Mark is big fan of the Player Pathway, an initiative set up by the England Cricket Board (ECB) to make sure that players from all over the country can reach their potential, whether that be district, county or even international level.

"The ECB has created a very exciting project and the great thing is that the people involved want to do a good job. I'm very happy to be part of that," he said.

A year that included Ramprakash's retirement from the game was highlighted by an MBE in the New Year's honours list.

He added: "To be honest, it came out of the blue, so it was a very genuine surprise and I'm thrilled to be acknowledged in this way."

● Masterclasses are at 1pm and 3pm for Under 11s. Under 12s to adults 3-5pm. £22 per person. More about playing cricket in Greenwich at www.greenwichcricket.net or on twitter @GDDGCricket

MASTER BATSMAN: Mark Ramprakash, who scored more than 35,000 runs in his career, will coach young batsmen in the borough

Locals get masterclass with England's new coach

Bowled over

by Dan Sales

RUN machine Mark Ramprakash is coming to Greenwich later this month to pass on the tips of his trade to young batsmen.

One of English cricket's most successful batsmen ever, Mark will be leading a series of masterclass events, run by local coaches Len Sales and Graeme Moir.

The masterclass takes place at Avery Hill sports centre, Greenwich University, on Saturday, January 26, with separate sessions for under 11s and under 12s up to adults.

After a successful playing career of over 25 years, and over 35,000 runs, for Middlesex, Surrey and England, Ramprakash is a new batting coach with England.

He spoke to GT following a successful two-week stint with the England Lions on their tour of India. "I learned a lot from Graeme Thorpe (head batting coach) and I learned a lot about the Lions programme from very talented young players in a very professional environment," he told us. "I was really impressed with the way things are run."

With an ECB Level 4 coaching badge he picked up in 2006, Mark is enjoying the rewards that coaching brings. "What I've enjoyed about coaching so far is that you feel you can make a difference to someone," he said.

"You feel that with your knowledge and experience, you can help, either to improve a player, or help them if they're having difficulty."

"It's very rewarding and that's the big thing about coaching, to get that feeling of satisfaction, doing something positive.

"I used to enjoy scoring runs and contributing to my team, for sure, but helping your team in a coaching capacity and helping players evolve and get better, is very rewarding."

Looking back on his own development as a teenager, Mark says that things have changed greatly - and for the better.

"Things were very different 20
